

I think cellular telephone use aboard airplanes would be a huge mistake. Peoples' behavior aboard an airplane is generally more civil than average. A cell phone user is usually unconcerned about those near them as they speak in a loud voice, gesticulate and even argue or swear. I know that I would feel like requesting a cell phone user to stop if they were near me, which would add tension to an already stressful situation. I would definitely seek to travel on airlines which did not allow cell phone usage during flight.